WASHINGTON, April 9 .- The weather was extremely disagreeable for racing at Benings to-day. First it snowed hard and after that a steady rain turned the track into a sea of mud, yet the horses ran fairly true to rm, as three favorites passed the judges The attendance was restricted to about 3,000 regulars, while more than eighty books took care of the speculators. The wo-year-old races provided upsets. In the second event, for maiden fillies and geldings four furlongs, P. Powers's Black Mask, a 10 to 1 shot, made a runaway of it and won a couple of lengths from James McLaugh in's Helen B., a filly by The Pepper, who because of a fast trial and with Miller up was made a hot favorite at 6 to 5. She took the place easily from Mrs. R. W. Walden's andable, 6 to 1, with August Belmont's codon, 5 to 1, half a dozen lengths away. In the third event, for maiden colts at six and a half furlongs, O. J. H. McCormick has sold his crack sprinter Emergency to B. C. Evans for $3,000. The an offer that McCormick accepted.

J. E. Seagram, the Canadian turfman, has made an offer for first call on the services of dockey McDaniel for the coming season, which is taken to mean that the Seagram stable is more formidable than usual. McDaniel has several other propositions under consideration and will not make a decision in Woods Stockton has sold the four-year-old mare Anna Smith, which won at Bennings on donday, to W. H. Mosby, who will race her on the Canadian circuit. Mosby has a contract with 80 pound Dallin McCarty, the boy who can chippewa in clever style on Monday and moks to have a brilliant future in the saddle. John E. Madden said the other day that foung Goldstein, the jockey who has been making good at Washington, will in the course of time develop into a second Miller. Madden, by the way, appears to have a better lot fitwo-year-olds this spring than for several gars, and he has not shown the best of them the currents.

KING ALFONSO OFFERS CUP. American and Spanish Yachts to Race for It

BOSTON, April 9.-King Alfonso of Spain has offered a cup for a series of races between Spanish and American vachts of the Sonde Klasse type to be sailed at San Sebastian next September just after the German-American races at Kiel in August. A meeting of the Eastern Yacht Club will be held at an early date to decide whether the challenge shall be accepted.

Henry Howard, chairman of the German-American race committee, says that in all probability the races will be sailed and the same boats that represent America in the races at Kiel will be selected to meet the Spanish craft. Chairman Howard received the following cable despatch to-day from President Ybawa of the Royal Yacht Club of San Sebastian in regard to the match:

"King Alfonso of Spain has offered a cup for a series of Spanish-American yacht races to be held at San Sebastian next September, under control of Royal Yacht Club of San Sebastian, representing Spain, and Eastern Yacht Club of Boston, representing America. General conditions same as for Emperor William cup in German-American races to be held at Kiel."

The conditions mean that America will have three boats in the series against that one of the latter will be owned by King Alfonso. Trial races for the selection of three American yachts for the German races will begin at Marblehead on June 10 and are open to all American clubs. Six boats are being built in Boston and New York for the trial races, and probably of last year's boats also will compete.

The note is made on the Atlantic City announcement that "excepting the best score prize in the qualification round a contestant may win but one prize. Lakewood's card makes no statement on this point.

The Garden City Golf Club is alone in declaring that "stimles must be played in all match play rounds." The vigor of the game will be something the players must reckon with there as well as the new undulating greens. It is asserted that whatever occurs in a match is of concern only to the principals in it, who if this is true might agree to bar the drives as well as stimies. The Garden City committee goes on record as opposing this view by its insistence on the exact game.

SUSCITATE GAME.

tudent Committee to Confer With Committee on Athletics, Which in Turn Is Expected to Make Favorable Recommendations to the Bodies Higher Up.

Further steps for the restoration of football at Columbia were taken yesterday. The stulast six months for the reinstatement of the game was able to make arrangements with the university committee on athletics for a joint meeting of the two bodies. The meeting is to be held to-morrow evening, and is expected to result in a recommendation from the committee on athletics that football again be permitted at the university. The university committee on athletics is made up of Francis S. Bangs, Prof. Herbert G. Lord, Robert LeRoy, George Norris and W. G. Palmer, and has practically complete control of the athletic situation. Any recommendations that may make are likely to meet with favor with the committee on student organizations and with the university council.

At a meeting to-morrow some forty men who have expressed a desire to play football the university will appear to present their side of the case. From statements that have been made by those in authority it is believed that though there are many steps to be gone through all will now be plain sailing. The recommendations of the university committee on athletics will go to the committee on student organizations, which was first responsi ble for the abolishment of the game Should this body take favorable action all that will be necessary will be the approval of the university council, the supreme authority in such matters at Columbia.

Those who are working on the plans are convinced that they will be ultimately sucessful. They have gone ahead only after class for registered saddle horses and won receiving some assurance that their work s being looked on favorably by those in au thority. They point out that practically all when it was abolished have been removed Some of the faculty members who were op The class for ponies under 14 hands filled nosed to the old game on the ground of rough. ness and the opportunity that was offered for foul play believe the game as now played eliminates these features. The principal objections will be the difficulty of keeping unqualified students out, interference with studies, and the fact that many of the facult believe that enough students do not want to play the game to warrant its restoration. The students will meet the first of these objections with a pledge that they will as sume control of the game in such a way that men not eligible will not even have their names put before the university committee on athletics, so that this committee will be spared many of the burdens that it has had in the past of keeping football teams up to the standard. As to the interference with

Tale-Oxford Athletic Meet Not Likely. the standard. As to the interference with a cademic work, the students will point out that other sports, such as rowing and baseball, take fully as much time, and from records which they have received on the way football is conducted at West Point will show how it is possible for the game to be played without destroying a student's academic standing.

The last objection the student committee feels that it has met fully by the list of names which it has obtained showing those atudents who actually desire to play. The attempt will be to get not interclass football, which was the greatest hope of the committee at one time, but intercollegiate football with a real, though perhaps somewhat abbreviated, schedule. According to Francis S. Bangs, this is what the students ought to aim for if they want to get anything.

Whether the permission to play can be obtained in time to arrange a schedule for next year depends largely on the celerity with which the various bodies act. In all previous experience the legislative bodies at Columbia have moved with a slowness that was only equalled by the decisiveness of their action. This was true even when the game was abolished. As some of the colleges have already announced their schedules for next season, and most of them have practically completed their arrangements for schedules, it is not likely that even if a schedule is arranged that it will be a long one.

The problem of getting together a team if football is restored will not be as serious as might be expected, considering that there are so few veterans in the university. The only men who have played on the Columbia varsity team who will be eligible next season are Helmrich, Fowler, Starbuck, Von Saltza and Ryan. There are, however, among those who have signified their desire to play next year many members of former class teams who have the necessary physique to make good football material.

The question of coaching has not yet been considered. In the time that Morley was at Columbia he had little success, and also did som with either Harvard or Yale. The sons of Eli will not commit themselves at this time to a statement that they would refuse to meet Oxford, but the sentiment is against it with the present poor track team, which is far below the Yale average. It is settled at any rate that Yale will make no advances, and so far as they are concerned the track team officers will let the Englishmen wait until the promised to come out are:

NEW HAVEN, April 9.-Spring practice in football, which was scheduled to begin at the football, which was scheduled to begin at the Yale Field yesterday, was postponed until to-day on account of the rain, and was again postponed this afternoon, as the field was buried under a foot of snow. Coach Knox said to-night that he could not tell how many men would show up for practice during the next few weeks, but only a score or more are expected, as many of the football squad are interested in other branches of athletics and are training on the various squads.

NATIONALS VS. AMERICANS.

Teams of the Older Organization Win Majority of Spring Ball Games. The baseball teams of the National League won a majority of this spring's exhibition games with their rivals of the American League. The representatives of the older organization were successful in thirteen out of the twenty-two games played. The failure of the Athletics of Philadelphia to hold their own with the Philadelphia Nationals was chiefly responsible for the American League losing the series. The Philadelphias won four straight from Mack's brigade and did not lose a game, whereas in all the other series it was a much more even battle. The St. Louis Cardinals won four out of seven from the Browns: the New York Nationals and St. each; the New York Nationals and Athletics split even with one victory each; the tardinals took two games out of three from the Washingtons: the Boston Americans took two out of three from the Cincinnatis, and the

The Americans shut out their opponents three times, the New Yorks, Cardinals and Cincinnatis being the victims. TOUGH TRAVELLING FOR TEAMS.

After a Giant Twirler. BALTIMORE, April 9. Wet weather and wet grounds prevented the New York Americans from playing the Orioles to-day. There was no regret among the players, however as they passed through an experience this morning which caused them much uneasiness. On awakening in their berths they peoped out of the windows and beheld the country in the throes of a baby blizzard. More than a foot of snow covered the ground, and a howling wind tore down trees, while telegraph poles were snapped off, owing to the heavily ice coated wires, many of which fell across the track. Telegraph communication was cut off and every few miles the train stopped and which was following closely. Nearing Manassas the snow was so blinding that a following train passed the brakeman without the engineer seeing him, and only came to a stop a few hundred feet from the New York's train. The engineer on the rear train saw the train ahead just in time to avert a collision

Shortly after the regulars arrived here, Jim McGuire, leading the youngsters, got in from Roanoke. Johnson, whom Hugh Jennings turned over to Griffith to be farmed to the Montreal team of the Edstern League, left for Lancaster, Pa., to-night to join that team. Griffith has been negotiating with a young twirler named Hobbs of the University of North Carolina, and it is probable the young giant, as Griff calls him, may become a Highlander in June. Hobbs fears the notoriety of having it known that he is to turn professional, and for that reason refuses to make any final arrangement with Griffith until after the college season, as he thinks it will tend to hurth fim at the university. He is said to be over 6 feet 1 inch tall, and to weigh 205 pounds. He was the best college pitcher in the South last was the best college pitcher in the South las year, and Griff thinks he will be a great find.

Baseball Notes.

The New York Americans never have played a game with a National League club. Pitcher Doc White does more running for fly balls than pitching to get fit for the championship

Interesting are the changes which baseball works. Here is Tommy Corcoran back in Greater New York again after fifteen years in the West. Of the men who have reported for practice this year the best material is jound in the middle distance runs, although all the runs are fairly well supplied with candidates. The weight events are yeak. This is especially true of the hammer throw. W. D. Poffock, Os, is the only man who has reported. As yet his work has been only fair. Hoynes, Columbia's star miler, continues to do good work. He has smashed the Columbia record for the mile more than once and is looked on to figure in the intercollegistes. Following is a list of the men who have reported for the team:
